DEAR STUDENTS,

Very few things in life are constant. Just a quick tour of the Liberal Arts drives home the fact that our existence is in a continual state of flux. Motion is central in the basic understandings of physics; growth and decay are rudimentary for understanding plant and animal life cycles; change and development, nay even progress – whoever gets defines that – are primary foci in the humanities; and humankind's continual pursuit of God is the crux of theological inquiry. So why is it we always seem a bit surprised when motion occurs? Is it because we weren't ready for it, even though we know that change is one of the few constants in this life? I don't know if you've noticed, but this year has been marked by change. A provost following God's call to a new assignment, a community relieved and even energized moving past merger, a new President and renewed sense of promise for the future, and as you look across into the faces of students and employees you see numerous people across campus stepping up, standing in the gap, and advancing our cause to glorify God, serve his students, and fulfill our mission.

100 years ago our forbearers paused and reflected on the world around them. As a fragile institution they examined the costs and benefits of forward motion. They prayerfully and deliberately chose to buck the trends of holiness institutions that were fleeing the cities to establish almost monastic-like holiness communities in rural seclusion, and purposely moved to Quincy a burgeoning community on the doorstep of Boston – a city that is still the seat of Western Higher Education. This wasn't a flippant decision and care for students and the advancement of a robust educational mission were central to the choice. Students would have greater access to professional experiences both while in college and post-graduation. And ENC could be engaged in scholarly inquiry from a decidedly Christian perspective with colleagues from major research institutions.

Years later our community would actively seek to live into a Kingdom vision and become one of the most culturally diverse Christian College's in the country. We are all the things we are proud of today because we thoughtfully and prayerfully took steps forward, toward a fuller picture of what the Lord has for us. And I don't need to remind you of the constant and pervasive presence of the hand of God on our collective history. We have experienced setbacks and triumphs, grief and unspeakable joy on these hallowed grounds over the past 100 years and we are heartened by the beloved community the Lord has surround us with as we seek to honor him for year to come.

So as we turn the pages of this volume we pause and we reflect on what the Lord is doing in our community. And we appreciate the people he has brought to this place to move us deeper into the realization of his calling to be a College after his own heart for his beloved people. Each of you are blessings and your journey here has made ENC a better and stronger institution.

With Deep Affection,

JEFF KIRKSEY

DEAR STUDENTS,

Thank you for the amazing welcome you've given me! I started at ENC on April 1 (yes, April Fool's Day) and so we had only one month together before the academic year ended. But in that one short month, you have extended friendship and kindness to me in so many ways. From the bubble wrap in my office to the pizza party in the library to the meals together in the dining commons to the many conversations around campus, you have gone out of your way to make me feel at home. I am so grateful.

And I am impressed. I've watched you lead worship in chapel and compete on the athletic field and perform in Cove and provide leadership in SGA and interact with your professors and support one another, and you consistently demonstrate your intelligence, talent, dedication, and character. You are a remarkable group of young men and women, and I am honored to serve you as your president.

To the graduating seniors: I regret that our paths crossed so briefly, but I pray that you will find much joy in your journey and that you will remember your time here at ENC with fondness. You will always have a home here, and I hope you will come back and visit often. To those of you who will be returning next year: I look forward to being with you for the entire year and getting better acquainted with you.

I have chosen to work in Christian higher education because I believe in our mission and I believe in you. ENC combines the diligent pursuit of truth with the passionate pursuit of the One who is the Truth, and the result is that students are equipped to serve God and society in impactful ways. All of us here at ENC are committed to providing you with that kind of education, and we look forward to seeing how God will use you to change this world that He loves so much.

Gratefully serving you,

JACK CONNELL

PRESIDENT

DEAR STUDENTS,

I cannot believe how fast this four-year wild, mechanical bull-ride has gone by. Seniors, each of our paths have diverged into their own unique adventure, full of their own hopes, dreams, passions, and glorious accomplishments. It has been an extraordinary four years and it has been my greatest pleasure to serve such a powerfully fierce, genuinely kind, and transparently loving group of people that seek with their whole hearts to accept and embrace all who wish to be a part of the ENC community.

What an awkward, anxiety-inducing, messy, shameful, tearful, bitter journey it has been for some of us. Yet, we have emerged from the wilderness to see the light that shines from our passing grades on our ENC portals. Whether you are graduating or finishing another year, we are all one step closer to the transformation and the renewal God is calling us to. Our paths are winding but we are not lost. We may feel disoriented, but we have not been abandoned nor forsaken. We have struggled, but we have emerged unscathed. We have learned to appreciate our peace in the chaos, to find God in our loneliness, and to remember that at our weakest, His power is our strength.

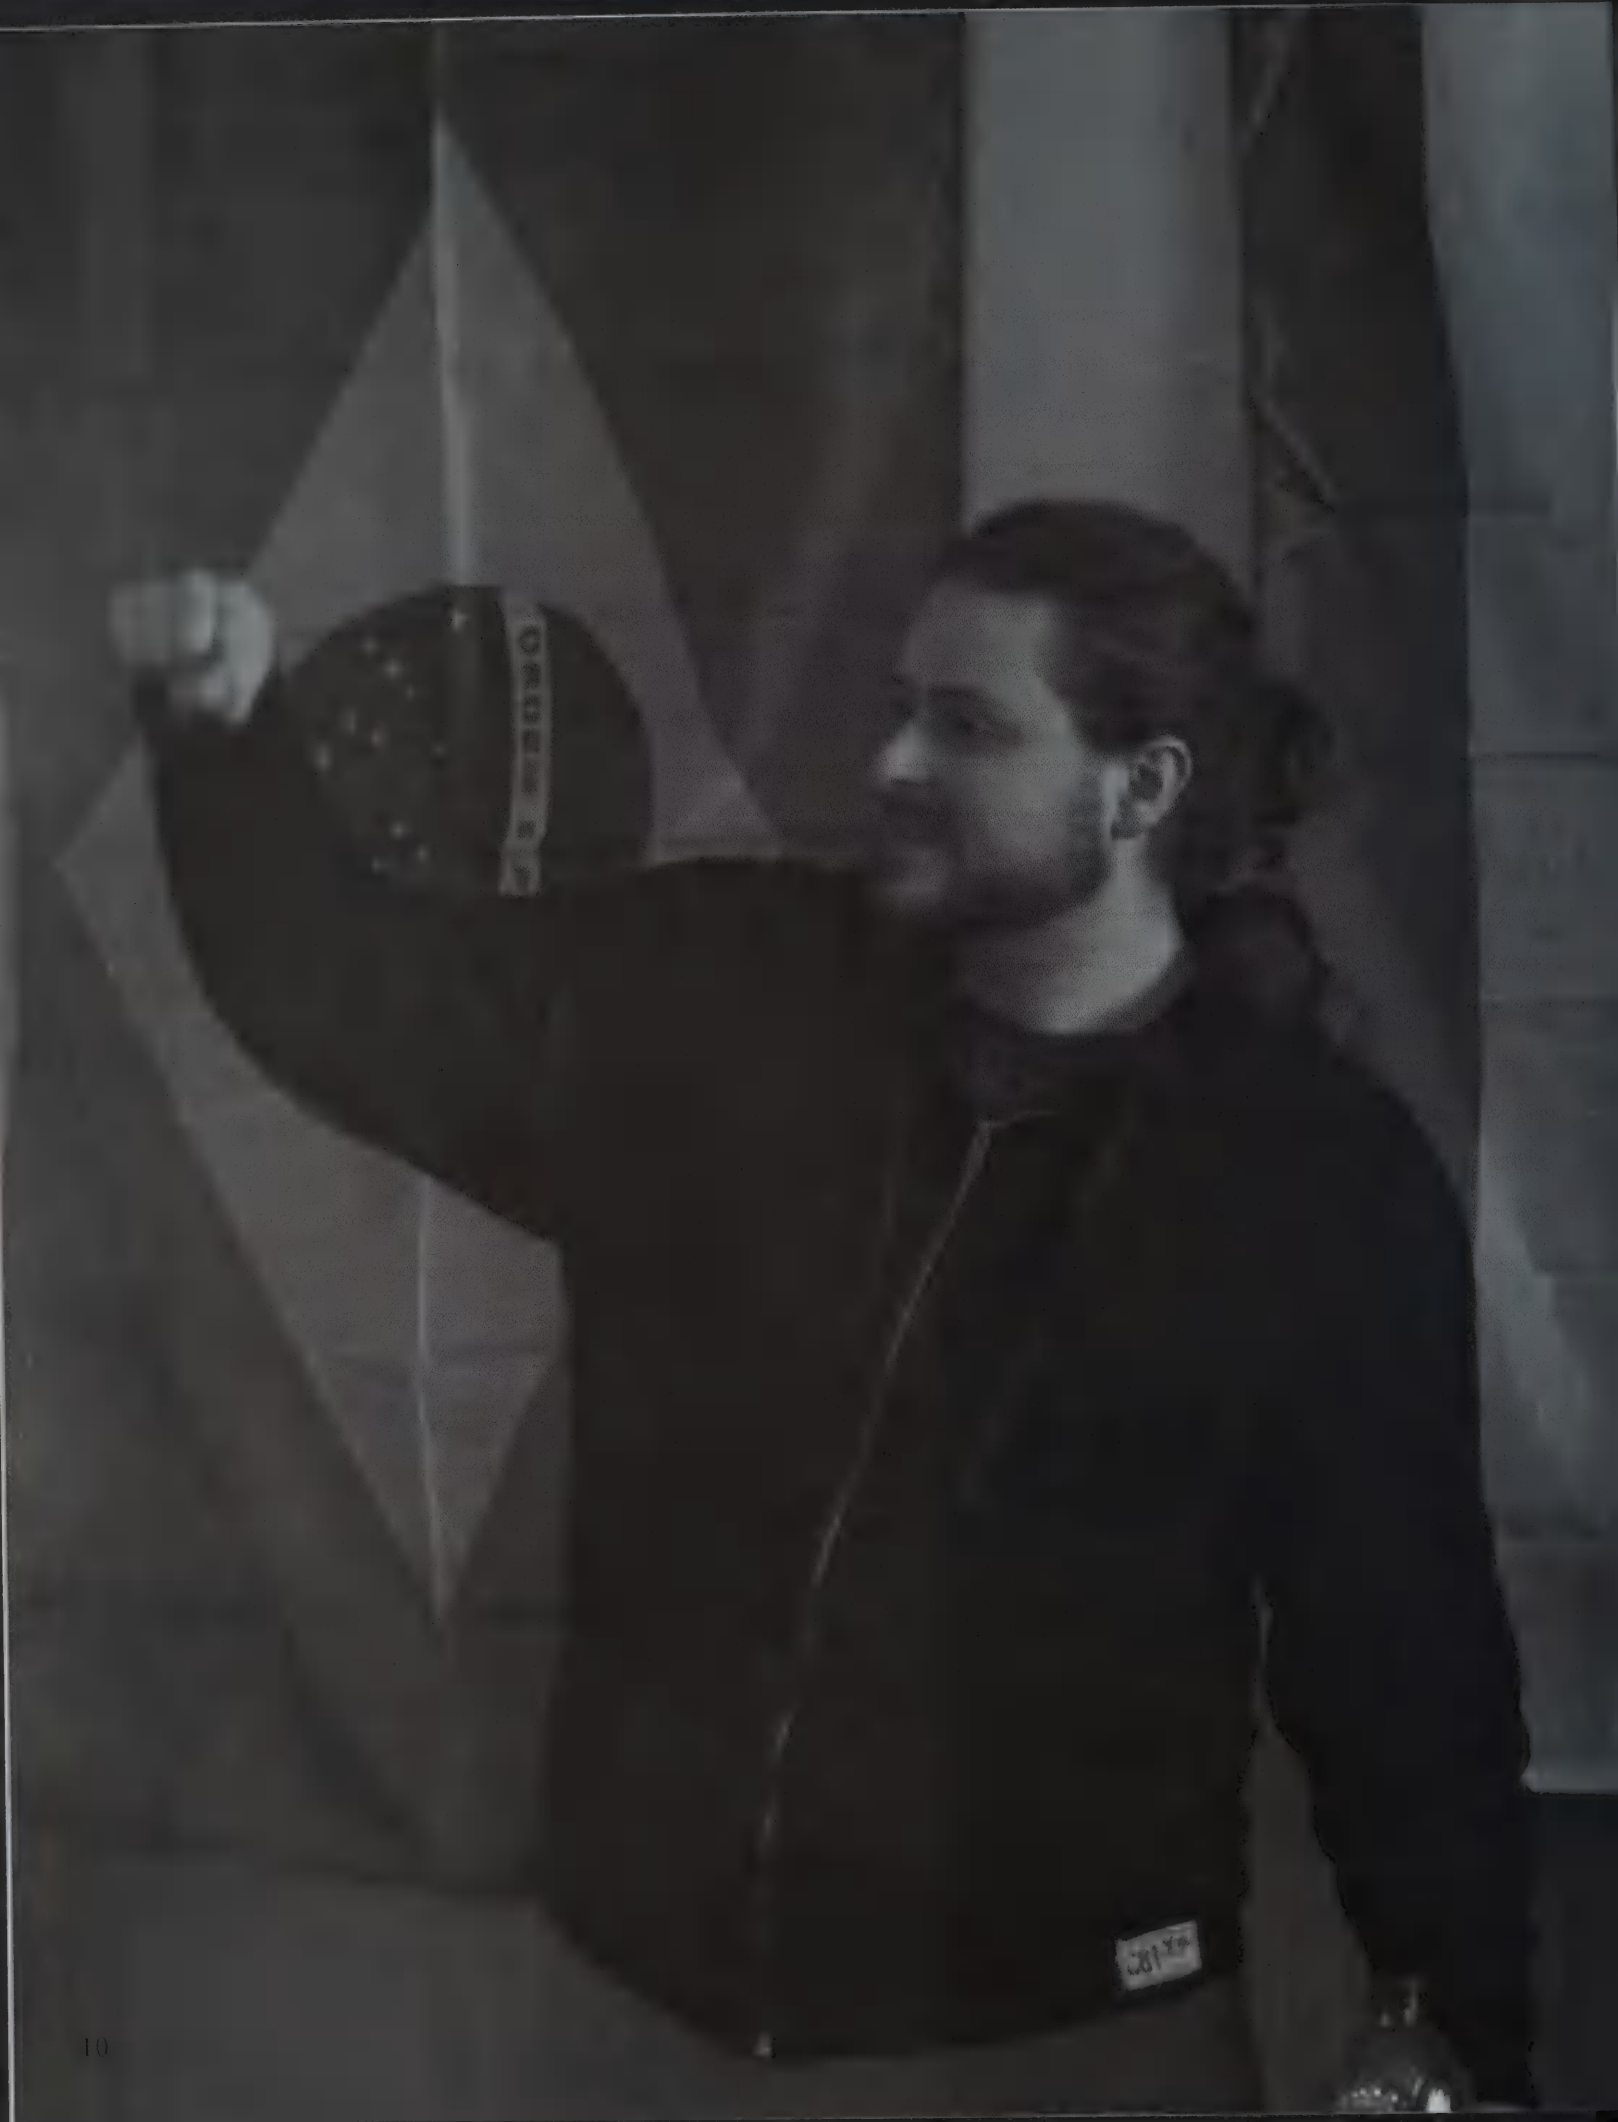

"In his kindness God called you to share in his eternal glory by means of Christ Jesus. So after you have suffered a little while, he will restore, support, and strengthen you, and he will place you on a firm foundation" 1 Peter 5:10 (NLT). Never forget that our salvation does not come from anywhere other than our Lord, Savior, and Redeemer Jesus Christ. Our peace resides within the personhood of Jesus Christ, the same being who is found in every single human as the light that shines through every one of us that accepts Him and believes in Him.

Congratulations Class of 2019 and good luck to everyone else. Remember that stumbling should be an opportunity to reach out for support not to seclude and isolate oneself from those who are to restore, strengthen, and remind you of the firm foundation of Christ's community which we are all a critical part of. We are all going to struggle, but we are not to do it alone. Know that every one of you are challenged to grow into your full potential by an almighty God who believes in you. Above all, remember that you are absolutely adored by the Creator who sees you for all that you are and loves you despite your fears, failings, and insecurities.

Thank you and may God always be with you,

MONICA LY

DEAR SENIOR CLASS,

Well guys, it's been one heck of a ride. We survived four years of Caf food, three different presidents, two sports conferences, and that time Trevecca wanted to call us "Eastern" (we knew that was never going to work). Although, I only served the Class of 2019 for the last two years, it was an honor getting closer to all of you! I enjoyed how intentional our Class Council has been while reaching out to all members of our class through valentines and encouragement notes. Whether it was through dodgeball, Smash Bros, or karaoke, I enjoyed the time we spent with one another! May God keep his hands over your life, guiding you into doing His will.

Also, I apologize ahead of time for the annoying emails you'll receive from me over the next few years regarding our reunions, I didn't know it was part of the job until after I won.

DEAR JUNIOR CLASS,

The class of 2020 continued to impress its mark on ENC. The group is highlighted by the size and dubbed one of ENC's largest classes. However, the uniqueness and individuality expressed by the Junior class is truly astonishing. The class of 2020 is full of leaders in the classroom, on the courts and fields, on the stage, in residential life, and amongst student government. One impressive quality of the class is the sustained excellence of leadership and character exhibited year after year. There are not enough words to express the respect and admiration we hold for our fellow classmates and we are grateful for the contribution of every member of our group. Although words will never do justice to the care and attention to detail of this class, the memories held, and the bonds created will last eternally. On behalf of the Junior Class Council, thank you, and you are cherished.

CLASS OF 2021,

As I reflect on this past year, I cannot help but feel fulfilled. We have worked hard to get to where we are today. Transitioning from freshman to sophomore year is not easy, and we should be proud of ourselves. From serving as Class Chaplain freshman year and as Class President sophomore year, I've seen the true nature of our class first-hand. We are small in number but are full of hard working and unique individuals. We have seen our athletes boldly step into leadership roles in creating an excellent year for sports. Our work ethic in the classroom continues to be beyond excellent. In theater, we have seen outstanding performances by our sophomores who are dedicated to their art. In student government, residential life, chapel teams, and fusion trips, we have absolutely crushed it. Thank you, Class of 2021, for making this year so memorable, and I cannot wait for the rest of our college career together.

CLASS OF 2022,

This year has been a year of remembering, learning, growing, adapting, changing, teaching, and doing. In those few words there is a lot of progress and a lot of movement, I think the one word to describe our freshmen year was just that, movement. Not like an organized ordeal, but more like none of us were still, all having different movements and areas of growth. Sometimes where there is growth, there are growing pains and sometimes when there is an opportunity for adaptation, there is confusion. However, I think we can all agree that through hard times of growth, the end is sustaining and peaceful. I hope the experience you had in your first year here at ENC was a blessed one, and let's continue growing together on this campus. As your council, we thank you for the opportunity we got to serve you, and we hope this council continues to strive to be a voice for everyone.

ADELE DUVAL

Two months ago, the temporary theme for the yearbook was “no theme”. This book had no cohesion, no color palate, no home in the design world. But in the process of creating, a theme emerged from the pages themselves.

Black, white, spice red no. 28, silver no. 81, orange x9023, and yellow x9021 are more than just the colors used in this book. They are the color palate that give this book coherence and a home. I see these colors as representative of the students at ENC; we hold the college together.

A sense of unity is found in the pages as well on campus. We can and will get through anything together. That’s why this year’s yearbook theme is cohesion and the dedication is to the students. We are the ones who unify the college and make ENC feel like home so let us cherish this moment as we reflect on the pages throughout the 2019 Eastern Nazarene College yearbook.
